Mr. Shamanna is now engaged in compiling codes for the Public Works and Forest Departments and the Audit Office. His time and attention will be completely taken by the above work and in seeing these volumes and the Treasury Procedure Volume (which is not yet out) through the Press. It will not therefore be possible for him to take up the revision of the Mysore Service Regulations without seriously delaying the publication of the Codes referred to above, which are urgently required for the use of the different offices.

The existing fourth edition of the Mysore Service Regulations has undergone many changes since its publication in 1912 and the copies also have all been exhauste In bringing out the fifth edition, all important change made since the publication of the last edition in the British Civil Service Regulation will be incorporated i our regulations in so far as they are found applicable. Endeavour will also be made towards simplifying the rules as far as practicable. For this important work, it is proposed to place Mr. S. Shamanna, Assistant Comptroller, on special duty for about 2 months after the compilation of the Accounts Manuals is finished. The establishment now working under Mr. Shamanna will also be kept on for the purpose for the same period.

In G. O. No. 7R 6392-5-9.7.54-18-3 dated 29-5-19 it is ~~noticed~~ noted that a new edition of the Mysore Service Regulation should be brought out as copies of the present edition are exhausted by bringing the present edition up to date & introducing in it any alterations that might be suggested by a comparison with the latest edition of the British Indian C. S. R.

I beg to submit that the consideration of the alterations in the British C. S. R. and the obtaining of Government Orders thereon will take time and delay the issue of this new edition of the M. S. R. This comparison just at present may not be of much advantage, as radical alterations in the C. S. R are under contemplation (in connection with the Reform Scheme and the Report of the Public Service Commission etc.) and will be brought into force before long. On the basis of these, extensive alterations will be necessary in our M. S. R.

I would therefore suggest that a new edition of the M. S. R. may be brought out by merely posting a copy with correction slips up to date and giving it to the Press for printing, postponing for the present the comparison with the British C.S.R. which even if done now will be again necessary one or two years hence after the radical alterations referred to above by me are made therein. If this proposal is accepted, a new reprint of the M. S. R. can be got out in the the shortest possible time and without incurring the expense of ~~having~~ a special establishment for it ~~as~~ the Press can itself print and issue the reprint. A year or two hence when the ~~contemplated in the~~ British C. S. R. we may introduce them here.
